

Vancouver Board of Parks and Recreation

Public Art Donation Proposal:
Portuguese Joe Silvey
November 26, 2012

Visit the Park Board web site at vancouverparks.ca

Background

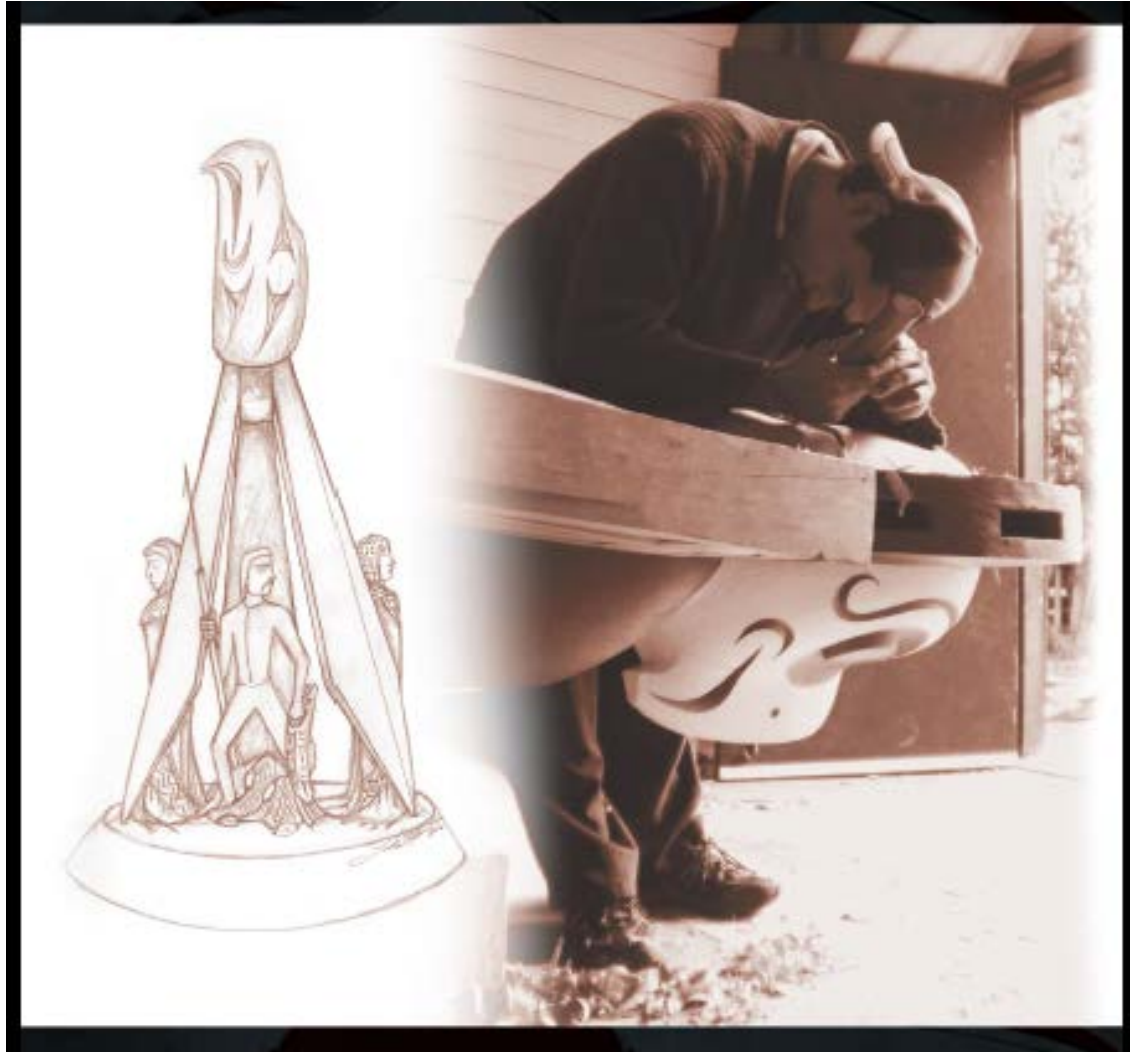

- Proposal received from the Portuguese Joe Memorial Society for monument to Portuguese Joe Silvey and Coast Salish wives, Khaltinaht and Kwatleematt.
- Sculpture to highlight ancestral connection of Coast Salish and Portuguese communities in Vancouver
- Proposed location at Brockton Point, Stanley Park
- Standard Park Board donation process being followed

Portuguese Joe Silvey

- One of the early Europeans who settled in Vancouver
- Came to BC coast in 1860 on a whaling schooner, jumped ship to try gold-mining
- “Renaissance man” of generation
- Married first wife Khaltinaht, Chief Kiapilano’s grand-daughter and moved to area now called Brockton Point where other European and First Nations families lived

Portuguese Joe Silvey Project

14' Bronze Sculpture by artist Luke Marston
Great, great grandson of Joe Silvey and Kwatleematt.

Proposed Location

Brockton Point,
Stanley Park

Two possible sites identified

Donation Process

| Completed | To Be Completed |
|--|---|
| 1) Proposal Initiation: Meetings regarding donor obligations and requirements | 3) Aesthetic Review: Public Art Committee final review (Dec. 10, 2012) |
| | 4) Public Consultation: Stakeholder consultation (December 2012) Community consultation (early 2013) |
| 2) Technical Review: Preliminary staff reviews for site selection | 5) Staff Report: Analysis of consultation, site options and donor requirements (mid 2013) |
| 3) Aesthetic Review: Public Art Committee initial review | 6) Park Board Approval: Formal presentation and recommendation (mid-2013) |
| 4) Public Consultation: Letters of support from local First Nations, Musqueam, Tsleil-Waututh, Squamish Letter of support from Portugal Consul-General | 7) Sculpture Installation (TBD) |

Final Comments

- Donors have applied to Canadian Heritage Legacy Fund - requires confirmation of project support from municipal authority
- Project completion possible by Fall 2013 – Stanley Park's 125th